Jackstones.

Most girls and some boys have played in their time the game of dills or knucklebones or jackstones, but few of them know that the game has existed since the third century B. C. and is probably still older. How it was played in ancient days no one can tell, but the ankle joint bones of the sheep, ox, deer and pig were used, and the game was called "astragal." From the Latin word for the ankle joint. In Scotland pebbles are often employed, whence the name "chuckies." Even precious stones and gold and bronze "stones" have been used, and in some countries the bones were marked with numbers and colored to represent kings, queens, knaves and pawns.—London Globe.

Pa Has a Daughter.

Willie—Pa, what comes after a million? Mr. Roxelgh—The fortune hunter, my son.—Boston Transcript.

Origin of the Saw.

According to Apollodorus, the invention of the saw came about in the following way: Talus, so the account goes, having found the jawbone of a huge snake, used it to cut through a piece of wood and, finding that it worked so well, formed an instrument of iron similar to it. The first sawmill concerning which we have any clear knowledge was erected on the island of Madeira somewhere about the year 1400. A few years later one was built at Breslau. There were no sawmills in England prior to 1663. In that year one was built there by a Dutchman, but he was forced to abandon it. Sawmills were erected near London about 1770.

THAT WHICH LASTS.

"The only thing that walks back from the tomb with the mourners and refuses to be buried is character." That is true. What a man is survives him. It never can be buried. It stays about the home when his footsteps are heard there no more. It lives in the community where he was known; hence we should take care to build into our character only good and beautiful things.
